Programme overview
The three year degree programme in Political Science and International Relations aims at offering a multidisciplinary education to shape professionals equipped with the necessary knowledge and specific competences in order to operate in the private sector as well as in national, European and international institutions. The objective of the programme is to equip graduates with competences on the understanding and management of the processes of globalisation and socio-economic transformation. Participants will study the most important subjects required by national, European and international public administrations, with a specific focus on anti-corruption rules operating at domestic and supra-national levels. Students will be trained in the knowledge of public security systems, anti-corruption and how to fight against organised crime at the international level. Students will acquire the necessary knowledge to manage international relations in both the political and administrative areas, with specific reference to activities promoted by supranational organisations, such as those related to the United Nations, in the rapidly growing field of cooperation. The course offers employment possibilities in different areas, like national private and multinational organisations, national, supranational and international public organisations, non-governmental organisations (NGOs), and the third sector.

Minimal entry requirements
An Italian secondary school diploma or a certified foreign equivalent demonstrating 12 years of study is required.

My degree programme is the first step to become an international relations professional.
When I finish this programme, I will be qualified either to go on for my Master’s or else work in programme that require a Bachelor’s Degree.
There are so many opportunities in the field, and the subjects I am studying now are both interesting and applicable for my future job.
We are studying about International politics, human rights, development, International law, International economics, to mention a few.
The students in my program come from different parts of the world, so I am making friends while I learn about new
